BROTHERLY LOVE.

The Tender Devotion of a Colored Man for a Sister Sister.

Nothing moves the heart of the loving sister of undemonstrative brothers so much as the unexpected exhibition of brotherly love, says a writer in the Homekeeper. Many a sister, whose brothers are all that she could ask for, in manliness, courage and purity, would be almost glad to exchange places, for a little while, with the sister in the following account, whose brother not only loved her, but was willing that all the world should know and feel that love.

A noble case of brotherly love came under my observation recently, while in one of the great greenhouses of the city. A little, middle-aged negro, with a face like ebony, was overseeing the making of a large bouquet, which the young lady in attendance was skillfully constructing of white carnations, daisies, etc.

"Now, put some roses in," he said. "The roses are much more expensive," remarked the clerk.

"It doesn't matter about the cost; she always liked roses," said the little man, and going to the cold closet he selected Jacqueminot, Marechal Niel and Niphetos buds, with a reckless disregard of cost. Then, following me to the door as I was leaving, he spoke lovingly of the flowers that they could get in the south, every where, without paying for them; of how the flowers grew in their yard, and how he used to see his sister out every morning handling and looking them over. "But she is down with the typhoid fever now, and I am on the railway, and every time I come to the city the first thing she says is 'Oh, bring me some flowers!'" And two great crystal tears looked over the rim of the little man's eyes, and a great white soul, full of brotherly love, shone out through the black face, and my heart cried out: "Oh, happy sister, to have such a brother!"

PRISON DISCIPLINE.

More Need of Rigor and Loss of Finest Sentimentality.

If we cannot help the honest worker, at least we can stop petting and pampering the detected confidence man, the thing of the dross and the enterprise but unsuccessful burlesque, says a writer in Lippincott's Magazine. The Howard association appears to hit the nail on the head in urging "the necessity of rendering the treatment of criminals less attractive than that of the law-abiding and industrious poor. He who lives by honest toil should not be tempted to envy the scoundrel who preys on the community. When the scoundrel is caught, what we have to do with him—if his offense is not legally a matter for the noose—is to keep him alive, safe and at work, to teach him something useful if we can (not necessarily Shakespeare and the musical glasses), and to restrict as far as possible his intercourse with his kind, especially separating him, while young, from those who would be his instructors in crime. It is not essential, nor even desirable, that he should enjoy his confinement; it ought never to be forgotten for a moment that he is there for punishment, that he is differentiated by his own act from honest and decent people. Short of inhumanity he can and ought to be made to feel that the way of the transgressor is hard; that honesty, or what the law recognizes as such, is the best policy. When tables are turned, when the knave becomes distinctly an unprivileged person, he may find occasion to mend his ways.

THE ACTION OF DUST.

How It Is Forced Into Houses When the Weather Indicator Rises.

When the air around us becomes condensed—shrinks into a smaller volume—it becomes heavier, puts greater pressure on the surface of the mercury and makes it ascend in the tube; then the mercury is said to rise. When the air expands—swells into a larger volume—it becomes lighter, the pressure on the mercury sinks in the tube and the barometer is said to fall. Therefore, every change of height of the quicksilver which we observe is a sign and measure of a change in the volume of air around us. Further, adds the Popular Science Monthly, this change in volume tells no less upon the air inside our cases and cupboards. When the barometer falls the air around it expands into a larger volume, and the air inside the cupboard also expands and forces itself out at every minute crevice. When the barometer rises again the air inside the cupboard, as well as outside, condenses and shrinks, and air is forced back into the cupboard to equalize the pressure, and, along with the air, in goes the dust. The smaller the crevice the stronger the jet of air, the farther goes the dirt. Witness the dirt tracks so often seen in imperfectly framed engravings and photographs. Remember, ladies and gentlemen, whenever you see the barometer rising, that an additional charge of dust is entering your cupboards and drawers.

Norse Ambition.

Norway is an ambitious country, and its people are given to original modes of thought and a scientist of Christianity proposes to immortalize himself by proving the feasibility of reclaiming the gold and silver in sea water by electrolytic action. He suggests that a channel about sixty meters wide should be selected for experiment. The place should be well sheltered from sea and wind, and there should be a current of about four meters per minute. Across this channel sixty plates of galvanized iron, each two meters by three meters, should be fixed at an angle of thirty degrees with the stream, and an electric current be sent through the series to precipitate the precious metals. Herr Munster, to whom the credit of this conception is due, has hit on a very fascinating idea, a veritable electrical philosopher's stone, and if he could only succeed in demonstrating its practicability he would deserve to the full the fabulous reward that would fall to him.

Old Maryland Churches.

An interesting landmark of the past is All Hallows' church at Snow Hill, Worcester county, Md., which has just passed through a perilous process of improvement. The parish is nearly two hundred years old, and the church edifice was reared in 1734. The earliest church was built of logs, but the present building is of brick imported from England and paid for with tobacco raised by a general levy upon the parish. Sixteen miles from Snow Hill is St. Martin's church, now disused, a brick structure of nearly the same age as All Hallows'. St. Martin's parish is older than the church, as the baptismal service still in use was presented by Queen Anne. Quite as old as either of these church organizations are several Presbyterian churches in the same region, founded by MacKenzie, the father of American Presbyterianism, while some of the earliest Methodist congregations in the United States were founded upon the same peninsula.

Lynch Law Among Birds.

In the neighborhood of Burley the other day, says the Leeds (Eng.) Post, a gentleman looking over a wall saw a dead hen in the field. Presently a rat ran up, snuffed at the defunct fowl with much satisfaction and went away in some haste. The onlooker, who is a student of natural history, knew what that meant, and removed the hen from the spot. In a minute or two the rat came back with half a dozen friends, with the evident intention of removing the carcass for future use. Arriving at the spot where the fowl had lain, the rat raised a loud squeak of astonishment at its absence. In a trice the other rats fell upon him so savagely that they left him dead on the field as a warning not to play practical jokes with his friends.

Cost of the Revolution.

The cost of the American revolution, of course, only be estimated, since no authentic data are available for an exact statement. According to the best information obtainable, its cost to the American colonies was about $135,000,000, and to England the expense of the war exceeded $500,000,000, besides the loss of 50,000 soldiers and the American colonies.

Safe, Sure and Speedy.

No external remedy ever yet devised has so fully and unquestionably met these three prime conditions as successfully as Alcock's Porous Plasters. They are safe because they contain no deleterious drugs and are manufactured upon scientific principles of medicine. They are sure because nothing goes into them excepting ingredients which are exactly adapted to the purposes for which a plaster is required. They are speedy in their action because their medicinal qualities go right to their work, relieving pain and restoring the natural and healthy performance of the functions of muscles, nerves and skin. Do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for Alcock's, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

Physicians Outdone.

My wife has been suffering with female trouble of the severest kind for over three years. I have paid twenty-five dollars during the last three months and she had no relief. She had doctored continually with the best of physicians.

I bought three bottles each of Dullam's Great German Female Uterine Tonic and Dullam's Great German Blood, Liver, Stomach and Kidney Cure and can say today that she is entirely cured.

Written to before me on the 23d day of June, 1894. JOHN C. DILLAM.

ADVERTISING DOCTORS

AND DOCTORS WHO ADVERTISE.

Dr. FRENCH'S GREAT SUCCESS

In Grand Rapids—His Opinions About Doctors Advertising—Also Some Marvellous Cures Made by His Wonderful Magnetic Healing Power.

There is a vast difference between an advertising doctor and a doctor who advertises; the former is made up of a mass of people who have no right to the title of doctor and are generally unprincipled and unreliable, while the latter are men who are determined to succeed in their profession at any cost. This is the opinion of Dr. French, the justly celebrated magnetic physician, located at the Vendome Hotel, 188 Fulton street, expressed to a reporter of this paper. This country is overrun, continued the doctor, with half-starved doctors who, if they would only use the columns of the reliable newspaper—the public's advisers—would know they were in the world and practicing the healing art by some code of ethics, but an ironical law of medical societies prohibits them from advertising, so they waste valuable time doing nothing or following the kind of training. It is the medical colleges are turning out about eleven thousand new doctors every three years and the country is full of men with diplomas, who can get no practice for the good and sufficient reason that no one knows they are even alive. Diseases of every name and nature are alarmingly on the increase, and it is a bad commentary on the ability of the general practitioner to cope by any ordinary means with the vast army of suffering humanity. Not only do those who have been suffering for years with some severe chronic disease continue to grow worse under medical treatment alone, but new cases are developing every day and ineffectual diseases are just allowed to be driven into chronic disease by the ordinary method of medical practice. And it is left for the advertising specialist to effect the cure after all other means fail, but when he has cured the patient by new and improved methods he knows no more and more advanced schools of doctors like Dr. French and his disciples the cure in some reliable daily journal, the whole medical profession set up a long, loud cry of "quack" and "humbug." Now this is unjust. The doctor has just as much right to advertise as the grocer or dry goods merchant, and he who does the most judicious advertising does the most business. Dr. French advertises as long as he continues to practice and newspapers are published and printing offices are run, he will do so, and is a sensible idea for a person who is sick that they will not patronize a doctor who advertises simply from mere prejudice and for fear of what the neighbors may say. Mrs. Chas. Day, Waverly street, cured of distressing stomach troubles, suffered several years and could obtain no relief on medicine or ordinary treatment; cured by Dr. French's magnetic treatment in four weeks.

Mrs. George B. Chamberlain of No. 142 Belmont street may be referred to as having been relieved in a few treatments of inflammatory rheumatism; suffered extremely for years. The blind seer—Miss Sophia Gendron, No. 111 Remson street, blind from 3 to 15 years of age, refused to submit after all other treatment had failed, can now see to read. Miss Louise Payson of Hope was cured of a very bad case of catarrh. Mrs. D. Underwood, cured of spinal weakness and dyspepsia in two weeks; lives with her mother, Mrs. Widdicombe cured of rheumatism of shoulder and right arm in one week. Mr. Patrick Cronin of No. 273 Franklin street suffered for months the most excruciating agony from sciatica; he could neither sit or lie down or sleep nights or daytime either; was completely worn out and obliged to give up his work altogether. In this condition he was brought to Dr. French and was cured in four weeks. Mr. Cronin has been at work ever since and has had no return of sciatica. Many other cases too numerous to mention could be cited. A young lady, whose name is withheld by her request, began treatment six weeks ago for ovarian trouble. She had been treated for cancer by one doctor and for tumor by another. This lady's sufferings can never be told in words; besides, the future that lay before her made her despondent and extremely nervous. She is now as well as any woman, and is willing to confer with any similarly afflicted. Do not wait to see a cure like this, but come now and see how you can be cured before your worse by Dr. French's magnetic power and skill. Office hours from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.
